Shawsheen Road Still Poses Big Problems

The town has refused to concur with a state suggestion that it approve acceptance of Shawsheen rd. "as is".

The verbal suggestion was made to the Board of Public Works by state officials, who intimated that additional construction required on private property along the street, reconstructed under Chapter 90, might be done more cheaply if it can be let out on bids.

At the moment, the Brox Construction Co., which did the work last year, still is the contractor of record. Work authorized now would be done by that firm, at a price not established under bidding procedures.

However, BPW Secretary Albert Cole Jr. explained that the state

Received Medals From NSDAR

Two eighth grade pupils of St. Augustine's School were presented with good citizenship medals by Priscilla Abbot Chapter, N.S.D.A.R., Tuesday at the assembly period.

Mrs. Frank Hayes, regent of the Chapter, presented the medals and pins to Pamela Noury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Noury, 9 Chestnut st. and John Flynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Flynn of Woburn st. They were given for excellence in American History and came as a surprise to the recipients, as this is the first time the medals have been presented to the parochial school pupils.

Attending this ceremony were, besides Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Leo O'Connor, ex-regent of Priscilla Abbot Chapter, and Mrs. Ernest C. Edmonds, press correspondent.

Very Rev. Henry B. Smith, O.S.A., also was present and congratulated the winners.

NEW TELEPHONE LISTED AT FIRE STATION

A new telephone number, for use in routine business calls to the Fire Station, is listed as 281.

Chief Henry Hilton said the long-standing number, 212, will be used only for emergency calls in case of fire, need for the ambulance, or other departmental emergency services.

The new number, 281, must be used on all other business.

Hilton explained that when the dial system is in use, it will be necessary to have two numbers — one strictly for emergencies — because there will be no operator available to cut off a routine call when an emergency arises.

Callers on routine business to the station will be asked to use the new number, 281, if they inadvertently use the emergency number.

Houses Entered By Burglar

Two house breaks are under investigation by the Police Department.

Both occurred last Thursday afternoon, May 29.

The home of Anna F. Walsh on Forbes ln. was entered, police reported, sometime between 2:30 and 5:15 in the afternoon. Entrance was gained via a rear door, unlocked by the burglar, who broke a small pane of glass to reach the lock.

Sgt. William R. Hickey said the same method was used to enter the home of Samuel G. Wright, 165

Will Hold 900 Cars

Semi-swamp, brush and wooded area is rapidly taking the form of a 900 vehicle parking lot, as earth-moving equipment pushes construction of Raytheon's sixth parking lot. Local plant officials stated that completion of this lot will make available nearly 2200 off-street parking spaces and on the basis of today's employment, this should represent a surplus of over 300 spaces.

Efforts will continue to effect maximum utilization of space through the encouragement of car pools. Today some 500 car pools transport 1800 employees to the plant daily. It is felt, therefore, that the car pool program contributes to maximum utilization of parking area and at the same time, lessens the traffic load on adjacent roadways when employees are going to and from work. It is expected that the new parking lot will be in operation in late June.

Humanity's emergence into the space age should be greeted with firm assurance of God's unerring direction and supporting care, The Christian Science Board of Directors declared at the meeting.

Some may view this new age with fear and trembling, but Christian Scientists welcome it and the opportunities that accompany it, they said.

More than 7,000 church members from many parts of the world heard the Directors' message. Scientific reliance on God's power is showing the way, the Directors said, to bring peace and harmony both to the individual and the world.

In spite of the material progress being made, it is becoming evident that material discoveries "are not really solving the basic problems confronting humanity, but seem, in fact, to be increasing them," they declared.

Stressing the challenge of the new age, they added: "While the constructive uses of modern inventions promise much, their destructive possibilities . . . would threaten the very existence of our present civilization. Consequently, thoughtful people are beginning to realize that only by availing themselves of a higher power, a force far more powerful than that obtained through nuclear fission or fusion, can men hope to hold in check and nullify the evil elements of the human mind which would threaten to misuse the inventions of the space age."

Miss Betty Heinz has completed her first year at the University of Massachusetts and is now at her home on High Plain rd.

SHAWSHEEN ROAD IS A PROBLEM

can go right ahead and accept the road in its present condition and turn it back to the town — without any written statement of its continuing responsibilities for work left undone.

Cole said some $9000 worth of work has yet to be completed, plus whatever costs will be presented for fixing the 200-foot section that sank shortly after it had been constructed. Most of the money will be spent on rebuilding walls, steps and repairing damage to private property resulting from the reconstruction.

No estimate of the cost of fixing the sunken part of the road is available. The state is taking borings this week to determine how much peat lies below the road surface. Officials have explained that extra fill in this section caused the road to sink and might continue to cause this condition unless the peat is excavated.

Even as the Board of Public Works considered the best way to solve the problem, a study of the cost figures for the road indicate expenditures far in excess of the bid price.

The Brox Company bid, in round figures, $54,000. In addition to this amount, $13,000 was retained in the Shawsheen rd. Chapter 90 account, for a grand total of $67,000.

But at this time, bills are in hand for $77,000.

Under an appropriation of town meeting, the sum of $80,000 was originally made available for this project. But when the bids came in so much under the estimate, the state and county approved transferring $13,000 to a fund for the reconstruction of the Ballardvale bridge.

Money Shifted Back

Some $7,000 of this transfer has been returned to the Shawsheen rd. account already and the remaining $6,000 probably will be returned to it, to meet the obligations already incurred for the road.

Thus, Mr. Cole explained, the town can pay for the bills in hand. But there will be no money available for any of the remaining work, estimated at $9,000. Nor will there be funds for the repair of the sunken section of the road.

Under state law, the town must pay all bills for Chapter 90 construction. Then the state reimburses the town for one-half the cost, the county for one-quarter. But neither the state or county share can be made available before the bills are paid.

Thus, Cole explained, it is up to the town to find the total amount of money needed to finish the project, even though the state and county shares will eventually return to the town.

So far, the BPW has no idea where the funds can be obtained. State Responsible

Under a Chapter 90 program, the state is responsible for all planning, design, writing specifications, awarding contracts and supervising construction. It can even accept a job, when it wishes, without the consent of the community, and turn the road back to the local municipality.

Several Board members have made known their feeling that written statements obligating the state to continue sharing Shawsheen road costs must be in hand before the local Board can agree to accepting the road from the contractor. But they agree it is possible the state may accept it anyway and turn it back to the town. This could, officials have stated, mean the town would have to pick up the tab for all additional work on the road, including restoration of the sunken portion.

tion of the sunken portion.

So far, a conference between state officials of the Department of Public Works and the BPW has produced nothing in writing.

May Get Results

Board of Public Works officials are quick to point out that the state is now anxious to cooperate, admitting that their original plans were poorly drawn. One wall, for instance, is referred to as the "hanging" wall — because the plans clearly show it sitting at least a foot above the sidewalk as a result of the reconstruction. Other walls, obviously in need of rebuilding due to the road work, do not appear on the plans, according to the BPW. Some shoulders were not shown and steps to houses along the road were not indicated on the plan. But all these items had to be done, it has been explained.

Early in the construction stage, the contractor was required to remove more than 30 trees — but only three or four showed on the state's plans, the town officials state.

The plans themselves were not presented to the Board of Public Works until specifications were already drawn and the job practically out for bids. Secretary Cole and BPW office Manager Calvin Metcalf agreed that the Board had little or no opportunity to study the plans or offer any suggestions prior to the state awarding the contract.

Where's The Money?

Asked whether money can be transferred from some source to cover the estimated expenses, Cole pointed out that there is nothing in any departmental budget that can be transferred. He also called attention to the $3,000 spent by the town to change the depth of the water main in Shawsheen rd., due to lowering the grade, which apparently is not to be reimbursed to the town by the state and county.

It's possible, he agreed, that any more work on the street may of necessity wait until after another town meeting, when the voters could be asked for an appropriation.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

The Challenge Is Real

Graduations come and go every year — and newspaper editorial writers write their usual pieces, made up of congratulations and comment about the challenge facing the young people as they leave school. And in the same vein, commencement speakers note the problems of transition from classroom to employment; or from classroom to college.

This repetition, through annual comment, tends to dull the meaning of the message. Like the cry of "wolf", uttered so often that no one paid attention when the need was real, perhaps most newspaper readers and commencement-goers shrug off this message as merely the duty of the one who states it.

But this year, more so than is most, we must face the fact that graduation-time is all-important to thousands of young people across the country.

Those leaving high school for college should realize just how fortunate they are to have been accepted in a year when the competition for college acceptance is unusually keen. And they must continually keep in mind that college no longer is a place to have four years of fun, mixed casually with enough studying to get by. Now, in the year 1958, college means work — plenty of hard studying. For there is no room any longer for the fun-loving, book-hating student who crammed enough into his noggin at exam time to pass with the lowest possible mark. The competition is too keen, the pace too accelerated. And the need for bright, alert, useful college graduates is too great to permit loafers to waste their time and the college's.

Thus when we speak of the challenge facing these youngsters, it is, in truth, a serious message.

And when we consider the high school and college graduates, who this year will seek employment amidst a general business decline, it also is apparent that they face a challenge of considerable severity. None can minimize their serious problem.

For the golden days are not now with us. College graduates haven't, as a whole, been able to sit back and wait for the best offer, certain that some industry or profession would come looking, even begging, for their services. Rather, the graduates have been looking for work in their chosen fields. This indeed is a great challenge to many, who somehow have overlooked preparing themselves in the manner and methods of seeking employment.

To the high school graduate, who is not going on to some school, there is an even more acute problem. While he or she seeks work, industry and business is becoming more selective because the need for help is not so great.

And in a third category — the youngster starting his final four years of public schooling, the ninth through twelfth grades — there is need for sober thought. These young people face a period when college acceptance probably will get harder. Their marks in grade nine, once more or less excused, must now be up to par. They have to bear down earlier, just at the time when many youngsters like to start having fun and neglecting studies.

For the time is coming, experts agree, when a couple of bad grades on a prospective student's record, even if they are in the ninth grade or the sophomore year of high school, may be enough to keep him out of college. Competition will be so keen, with far too few college facilities to handle the possible enrollment, that only the cream of the crop will be accepted. And this relative handful of students will be the ones who knew what they wanted and maintained an academic record good enough to get there.

So, in three ways, this year's message to graduates should be taken seriously. For in every respect, the college, high school and junior high school graduates must face up to economic or educational conditions that will test them well.

In whichever portion of this group you find yourself, this June of 1958, we wish you well. The challenge is great. But those who meet it head-on, with courage and determination, will in the final analysis do well. Good luck to you all.

A few enemies will do more to make a man successful than a hundred friends.

The worth of a man is measured by his everyday actions, not by an occasional good deed.

Happy is the silent man for he is able to keep the lid on his ignorance.

JUNE

16 Summer programs for children opens.

Andover Civil War Round-table meets, 7:30 p.m.

Many Films On Hand

Films available until June 15, for the dates given: until June 15, Musical Ride, 19 minutes, color; Great Northern Tackledusters, 11 minutes, color; Canada From Sea to Sea, 24 minutes, color; until June 30, Highway By The Sea, 15 minutes, color. Backyard vacationists would find these films particularly interesting, especially those who would visit the Pacific Coast. "Highway By The Sea" is about the spectacular and awe-inspiring U. S. Highway 101, which flanks the Pacific Ocean from Mexico to Canada. Once called the King's Highway, it heads north from San Diego on its way to Los Angeles and San Francisco. Advancing northward through Northern California's Big Tree country, it sweeps along the Oregon coast and on to Washington's great Olympic Mountain range. All films should be reserved well in advance of the date needed, in order to avoid disappointment.

Summer Program For Boys and Girls

Boys and girls of Andover will have a program of summer activities, as in the past, beginning with the Bookworms and their new adventures, on June 16, and continuing through Sept. 12. Plans are being made for puppet making classes for all ages, and dates will be announced as soon as possible. Each year boys and girls spend long hours at the library, enjoying their puppet making, planning their plays, listening to stories and selecting books for their Bookworm reading. All are invited to join with their friends this summer, and make the long days busy with fun and adventure into the world of books.

Home Library For A Song

No one needs to feel that the building of a home library is impossible, because of the high cost of books. A librarian, Ann Coleman, has worked out a five-dollar book shelf that will be a splendid back-bone of reference tools, from paper-bound publications. This list includes the following books: Pocket Bible, World Almanac, Handy Dictionary, Pocket Book Of The Great Operas, Pocket Book Of Old Masters, Baby and Child Care, Pocket History Of The United States, The Golden Treasury, The New Fannie Farmer Cookbook and The U.N. and How It Works. Ten excellent books, including art, music, poetry, history, and the United Nations are all available for the cost of less than an afternoon at the beach. A second list has been prepared that includes a book on science, religion, philosophy, economy, culture, and three standard classics of fiction, Great Expectations, by Dickens, Tom Sawyer, by Mark Twain and Crime And Punishment, by Fyodor Dostoevsky. This list may be purchased for ten dollars in paperbound editions.

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman:

"The 'Education' column in the May 19, 1958 issue of Time magazine covers a subject which has bothered many citizens of Andover for a number of years, i.e. merit pay for teachers. According to Time's editors, the teachers in Salt Lake City 'clamored for a 'leeway referendum' to allow the school board to add 5 mills to property taxes' and 'lost badly after a campaign that degenerated into a dog fight.' — Yet all bond issues for new school buildings have passed. The difference: much of the leeway money would go to across-the-board teachers' pay raises. A study on merit pay has poked along for four years, but teachers have been consistently cool to the idea of raises given according to ability. Said one disgusted citizen last week: 'Sure a good career teacher is worth more money. And a science teacher is worth more than a gymnasium teacher. But the educators just won't look at it that way. Pay the good teacher more, but also pay the lousy teacher more? Nuts!' 'That was in Salt Lake City but it strikes a reminiscent chord. It seems that I have heard something similar in Andover. Here, too, the merit pay idea 'has poked along for years.' Here, also, teachers have been somewhat cool to the idea of raises given according to ability. Here, also, citizens are beginning to revolt against paying the mediocre teachers high salaries in order to attract and retain the better career teachers.

"It is paradoxical that educators complain that their profession is not accorded the high regard and respect it commanded years ago and, at the same time, advocate principles which are calculated to destroy this respect. The professional of years ago took pride in individual achievement and in reward for such individual performance. One of the basic distinctions between the professional and the union tenet is this very difference between compensation in accordance with performance on the one hand and equal pay for the same job regardless of performance on the other hand. So long as groups calling themselves professionals, whether they be teachers, engineers or other technicians, act in fact like unions they will find it difficult to earn from the public the high regard accorded to true professionals.

"It isn't too difficult to understand why teachers, or other professionals, as a whole are opposed to merit pay for meritorious performance. In any group only a small portion will be outstanding. The vast majority will be of average performance or poorer. This vast majority, or rather those who instinctively feel they will be in this majority, will always be opposed to any merit plan. They stand to gain very little. In fact, to the extent that their employer pays more for outstanding performance, there will be less for them.

"This concern of the majority, lest they be remunerated for actual performance instead of by title, is usually masked by protestations that it is impossible to grade teachers. Let me hasten to point out that industry has little difficulty in grading engineers, technicians and supervisors, and the problem there is identical. All that is requisite is a sincere desire to do it and it can be done.

"Mr. John Q. Public is more and more evincing a disposition to revolt against paying exorbitant prices for mediocre products. He is just a wee bit tired of being the 'patsy' for recent labor and pricing goals and the teachers' position isn't too far different.

"The profession is doing a disservice to itself in resisting this reform. It is reducing its professional stature and is inviting the public to impose its own remedy. This remedy could prove to be even less palatable than merit pay."

DUMP WILL CLOSE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Starting July 1, the town dump will close Sundays at 1 p.m.

The Selectmen decided to close the municipal area partially because it is not possible for the attendant, Anthony Belia, to be on the premises all day every Sunday. But they agreed that the closing date should be moved to July, to give residents an opportunity to finish their spring cleaning of attics and garages.

The Selectmen also explained that Andover residents are the only ones entitled to use the area. Of late there have been many cars spotted from out-of-town and registration numbers have been taken on several occasions.

BALLARDVALE CHURCH NOTES

Seek Improvement Of Rt. 28 Detours

The Board of Public Works is trying to get the state to improve conditions on its detour streets and approaches to construction for Route 28.

Members of the Board Monday night complained that the streets are in terrible condition. Lowell st. came in for its share of comment, as did Dascomb rd., Chandler and Lowell st.

It was explained that the contractor apparently is not taking any steps to keep the surface reasonably smooth for vehicular traffic. Board members felt that one final appeal to the resident engineer should be made and, if not successful, there should be a request to the Boston office for assistance.

Chairman Alex Henderson said the resident state engineer has been requested to have the conditions fixed several times, but little has been done.

WHICH MAN PASSED THE N.P.* TEST?

NINETY PERCENT

The poised, smartly-dressed man of the left of course. You can tell at a glance... and that's why the Ninety-Percent Test is so important. People judge you by what they see (sometimes that's all they have to go on) and ninety percent of what they see of you is what you wear. The fresh finish of drycleaned clothes is more than an extra touch... like a flower in the buttonhole. It's an integral part of good grooming. The state of your clothes tells volumes about the kind of person you are. In fact, your clothes never stop talking about you.

You buy your clothes to make a good impression. As you wear them, have them drycleaned often. A smart man takes care to keep that impression fresh.

Residents Want One-Way Traffic

Residents of Riverina rd. and Kenilworth st. have asked the Selectmen to put one-way traffic back into effect, heading south towards Haverhill st. from Union.

In a petition presented to the Selectmen this week, several residents asked that steps be taken to have the necessary state hearing. The Selectmen announced last week that one-way traffic on the streets would be discontinued after a 30-day trial period. During that time, traffic was routed northerly, from Haverhill st. to Union.

The petition also asked that two-hour parking be initiated in the town-created parking lot at the end of Riverina rd., which the petitioners said was built for customers of the Shawheen Market and employees of the Insurance Company. They also asked that two-hour parking be enforced along their streets.

The State Department of Public Works must approve any permanent regulations on traffic flow, following a public hearing. The Selectmen must initiate the request for a decision, but have not yet reached a decision in this case, according to Secretary Stafford A. Lindsay.

All young men between the ages of 17 and 22, who have lived in the fifth congressional district for 10 years may be considered for appointment. No young man whose brother has been appointed to any of the military academies will be named, Mrs. Rogers explained, to provide for greater representation.

Hearing Tonight
For Pike School

Pike School is the petitioner at an Appeals Board hearing tonight in Town Hall, asking permission to build on a lot with less than required frontage on Hidden rd.

Headmaster William Harding explained that the School owns 29 acres of land, but does not have the 150 feet of frontage on an accepted street, required under the zoning law. He said tentative plans call for the erection of a new school plant on the 29-acre plot sometime in the future. Immediately, the School hopes to level off a smaller section for playing fields.

Even though the ultimate building plans call for use of the 29 acres as a building area, the frontage requirement must be met or waived by the Appeals Board, he stated.

Dana Clark To Attend Reunion

Dana W. Clark, 15 Florence st., a retired civil engineer, plans to attend the 50th reunion of his class at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology June 16.

Mr. Clark drew the plans for the pumping station and reservoir for the high pressure system at Bancroft rd. and Holt Hill, in the year 1908. He was the engineer during construction at these sites. Mr. Clark also drew the first of two large wall maps showing the town water and sewer systems.

After a 12-year period in the west, he returned to Andover and engaged in the engineering practice. He supervised construction of the Andover Country Club and helped plan and supervise the layout of many streets and buildings in Shawsheen Village. The grading and utilities around the auditorium and Junior High School were designed and constructed under his supervision.

The Day was proclaimed by the governor "in recognition of the endeavors and sacrifices" of Massachusetts firemen "who, in the span of their lives, gave of themselves in aid of their fellow-men".

The proclamation by the governor read, in part, "As we know them today, firemen are seemingly taken for granted; yet, in a sense they are the heroes of every community. Readiness at any hour, day or night, is their watchword. Service at any cost, tested mildly or to the extreme, is their contribution."
